Doves and Pigeons in Córdoba

Over 50 millions of doves is the estimated population of these specimens. The hunting season is open all year round, as these species are considered a plague and produce a significant decrease on the cereal fields.

The hunting area is located northeast of the Province of Córdoba and is characterized by being a plain zone, where there are a lot of cereal fields and dairy farms..

As there are a lot of birds, hunters can make all kinds of shootings. They can even shoot more than a thousand rounds per day.

The hunting of pigeons does not take place always on the same spots. Sometimes you hunt in feedlot fields (fields for cattle fattening), where the pigeons go to eat the grains that have been previously shat by the cattle and to drink water from the drinking trough. Some other times, you practice stand hunting between olive groves or pine tree fields, which offer the hunters high and difficult shots. It is habitual to use blinds during the hunt because pigeons are not an easy prey. Besides, it is essential to be well equipped with camouflage garments.

Estancia EL CORTIJO

EL CORTIJO, located just 50 miles from the International Airport of Córdoba. It is situated northeast of the Province of Córdoba. It has 9 double bedrooms with private bathrooms, air conditioning, room service available 24 hours, and laundry service. It also has an outdoor hydromassage jacuzzi and a heated pool.

The menus of EL CORTIJO Restaurant include a wide range of Argentinean dishes of high gastronomy, which include abundant red meat. Our chefs' team, led by David Lucero, puts emphasis and favors national products based on modern culinary techniques, creating on bakery and on other variety of foods local flavors, but subtler than the traditional cuisine of this country. EL CORTIJO has a selection of the best Argentine stock, standing out the famous MALBEC .
